THE ISSUES OF SITUATION REPORT

Informal Sector Service Centre (INSEC) has prepared the issue of Human Rights Situation Report based on the data of human rights violation and abuse collected during January to March 2021. The representative case analysis and summary of the trend of human rights violation is presented in report for updating the status of human rights violation periodically. INSEC has been continuously monitoring and documenting the cases of human rights violation and abuse since 1992. Various reports and publications are produced based on the analysis of INSEC's human rights documentation. The Human Rights Situation Report, a quarterly publication of INSEC presents the analysis of the human rights violation and abuse and includes the follow-up of the cases from the previous quarter.

Situation report, a supporting document for Nepal Human Rights Year Book, has contributed in institutionalizing INSEC's documentation. Publications and dissemination of such documentation have largely contributed to the protection and promotion of human rights in Nepal. INSEC believes that the analysis of data and cases of human rights concerns will provide the guideline and inspiration to the individuals, society, and state for their necessary actions in protecting and promoting human rights.

Human rights documentation is institutionalized in INSEC as per the Nepal's international obligation to the human rights treaties and conventions, Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the Constitution of Nepal. For the smooth operation of the documentation works, INSEC has its district representatives in 77 districts and offices at seven provinces and central office in Kathmandu.

We expect that this publication will guide social organizations and stakeholders for the campaigns and advocacy in the days to come. In line with INSEC's commitment to advocate for legal, instrumental and institutional reform to ensure human rights, rule of law, democracy and social justice, the situation report is expected to serve as a resource document for scholars, human rights defenders, law enforcement agencies and victims. Furthermore, we request the readers for their constructive and critical feedback for its improvement.

INSEC has applied digitized technology in human rights violation case documentation as well as reporting. Situation report has been published by verifying data and case analysis in every quarter. The data documented in report has been updated and disseminated through the digital medium (hrvdata.insec.org.np). Mobile-app and web-based technology have been implemented to enter the cases of human rights violation and abuse which were collected through the primary case monitoring methodology. The data has been validated with stakeholders and law enforcement agencies. Data and case analysis are used in this publication. Likewise, the risk of COVID-19 has not decreased during this reporting period. The increment in numbers of infected population in Nepal and the higher number of infection in India brought severe challenges in normal working approach and modality. The pandemic has increased the pressure and risk in human rights documentation and monitoring.

SUMMARY OF THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION

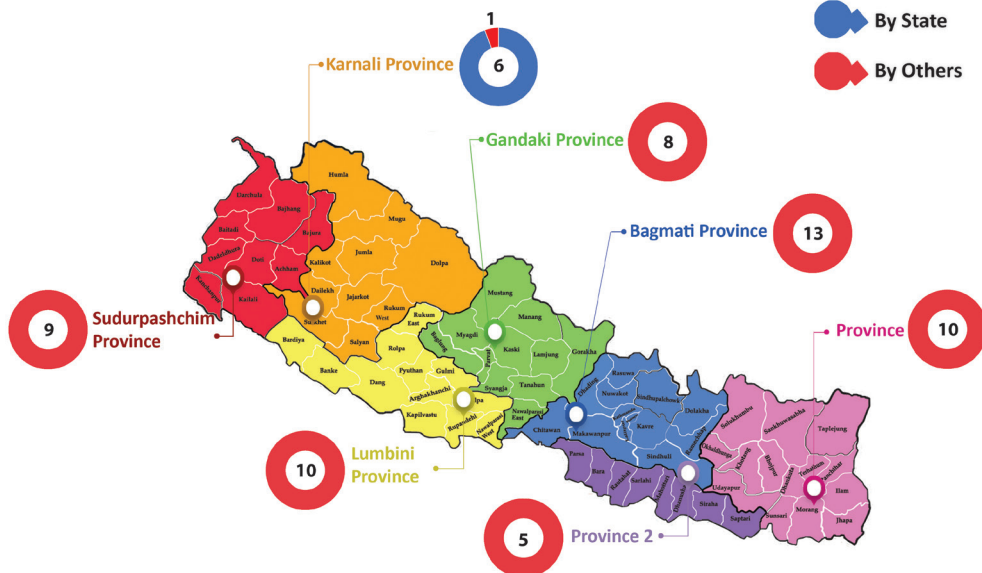

From January to March 2021

The trend of human rights violation and abuse in Nepal has not improved significantly in the last three months. INSEC has documented 225 cases of human rights violation in which the state failed to protect and ensure the rights of the citizens. Similarly, 1,192 cases of human rights abuse are documented from January to March. Out of the total cases documented during the three months, 13% is from Province One, 8% from Province Two, 18% from Bagmati Province, 11% from Gandaki Province, 30% from Lumbini Province, 8% from Karnali Province and 12% from Sudur Paschim Province. INSEC's record shows that 74% of the cases are related to violence against women and girls. The status shows that there is urgency in improved response of the law enforcement agencies and social organizations' campaigns as well as the institutional arrangements for assuring the rule of law and human rights friendly governance.

During the first three months of 2021, INSEC has documented 1,417 victims of human rights violation and abuse in Nepal. INSEC documented 225 victims of human rights violation including 16 females. REPRESENTATIVE INCIDENTS OF HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATION AND ABUSE

Death due to Torture

Jumla

Krishna Adhikari, 37, a policeman of the District Police Office, Jumla was accused of torturing Padam Budha, 13, of Gajyangkot in Guthichaur Rural Municipality-3 on January 31, 2021. The victim died due to his injuries from torture on February 17. Police had arrested Padam from his house on January 31 on the charge of stealing a mobile phone and kept him in the custody of the District Police Office. They had arrested seven people, including Padam, on January 31. While Padam was tortured in custody, six other suspects were released on the same day. Padam, who was undergoing treatment for swollen body after the torture, breathed his last on February 17 at Karnali Health Science Academy. After the meeting between the District Administration Office and the relatives of the victim on February 18, the DAO formed an investigation committee immediately, initiated provision of relief to the victim's family and committed to take action against the accused. After these assurances, the family received the body of the victim on February 20. A team of the investigation committee headed by Deputy Secretary at the Ministry of Home Affairs, Madhav Prasad Dhungana reached Jumla on February 24 and started investigation of the incident. The committee consisted of SP Madhav Prasad Shrestha, Karnali Provincial Police Office of Surkhet and Chief Investigation Officer of the National Investigation Department, Dil Bahadur Chaudhary. The committee has not published the report till now. Chief District Officer Bhupendra Thapa said that the family of the victim did not receive relief till the first quarter of this year despite receiving information from the Ministry of Finance. The National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) said that Padam's legs were swollen, had bruises on his left leg and ankle due to beating and therefore died during treatment.
